Prof .Hasina Banu Ebrahim

PROFILE

Hasina Banu Ebrahim is a full professor in the Department of Early Childhood Education at the University of South Africa. She holds the UNESCO Co-chair in Early Education, Care and Development.

Before coming to Higher Education, Prof Ebrahim served as a Junior Primary Educator, a Head of Department and a District Facilitator for Curriculum in Early Schooling. She served in management positions at the University of KwaZulu-Natal and University of Free State. Her research coheres around Early Childhood at the Margins, specifically concerning policy, practice and workforce development. She is a rated researcher with the South African National Research Foundation. She has also won prestigious institutional and national awards for ECD research.

Prof. Ebrahim continues to be influential in the ECD field through her expansive publications, invitations for keynote addresses and work as the convener of the knowledge generation working group in the Early Childhood Cluster in the African Union. She served as the President of the South African Research Association for ECD, a sector editor, and is currently on editorial boards of leading international early childhood journals.

She has led projects with international and national funding on ECD knowledge transfer, professionalisation and curriculum. Her current projects are on ECD workforce sustainability and systems for social justice and equity.

She serves on technical teams for ECD Human Resources, Quality Assurance and revisions to the African Union's Continental Strategy for (Early) Education.
